PROTECTING FOOD SUPPLIES

Navy Has Done Vast Work in Relief of Distress in War-Shattered Countries.

LONDON, April 28.—Transportation of food to Germany is largely under the direction of the United States navy, but this work will entail only an addition to the vast system of food distribution maintained by the navy since the armistice. The system utilized successfully in providing for hundreds of thousands in the near east, Balkans, Poland, Finland and Belgium will be applied to Germany.

The navy's job is to get the food to the place desired by the United States navy, but this work will entail only an addition to the vast system of food distribution maintained by the navy since the armistice. The system utilized successfully in providing for hundreds of thousands in the near east, Balkans, Poland, Finland and Belgium will be applied to Germany.

Until the task of feeding Germany was taken over the most extensive work was centered in Constantinople, where it was attempted to send food to the Hungarians, Armenians and Bulgarians. Food ships also were sent from Constantinople to Beirut, Haifa and Constanza always with enough fighting ships to insure their protection.

From American headquarters at Fiume, thousands of Czechs and Jugoslavs have been fed. It had been suggested that the navy should attempt to deliver food and supplies to the localities for which they were intended, but this was not done. Transportation inland is extremely difficult and fraught with danger of international complications.

Protected in Part. It was decided that the food should be delivered by port, placed in warehouses if necessary and protected by the United States until the hungry people could arrange to take it inland themselves. It has been shown that under the pressure of necessity the people have arranged for inland transportation quickly and were willing to assume the responsibility for proper delivery.

The staff at Rotterdam charged with seeing that the food of the Poles is safely delivered at Danzig. The inhabitants of Danzig were not aware that the United States would protect its food as long as it was in port and viewed with alarm the entrance of a gunboat into the harbor along with the Westward Ho, the first food ship to arrive. The alarm was so great that a rumor was spread over Europe on the basis of Danzig reports that the Americans had captured the town. The gunboat still is there and will remain as long as the shipments continue.

M'CORMICK SEES HOPE IN BRITISH DECISION

Armed with a decision from the house of lords of England, which canceled pre-war paving contracts of an English contractor, David McCormick, of the Parker-Washington Paving company, visited the mayor and city attorney Monday and called their attention to the decision which is in a similar case to that now before the city commissioners of the city. McCormick's contract with the city was canceled by the commissioners on refusal of the paving company to do the work at the pre-war contract price. It is also the plan of the city to let the contract and sue the paving company for the increase in the new price over the old.

The decision of the house of lords, which has been appealed yet in American courts, held that the war was sufficient to cancel the contract by making performance impossible. The other contention is that the war was merely a temporary hindrance.

The English decision calls attention to the fact that present prices of material are greatly higher than in the pre-war period and that the different conditions under which the contract must be fulfilled make it unfair to hold the contractor to the contract.

Mayor Hubbard read the report of the case as presented by Mr. McCormick, but made no comment on the matter. City Attorney Marshall received a reference to the case from the contractor but did not comment.

requirement in that matter with regard to the vote in the council.

The second paragraph of article 26 is also new and was added at the request of the Brazilian delegation, in order to avoid certain constitutional difficulties. It permits any member of the league to demand from an amendment the effect of such dissent being withdrawal from the league.

And the annex is added giving the names of the signatories of the treaty who become members, and the names of the states invited to accede to the covenant. These are all the changes, I believe, which are of moment.

Mr. President: I take the opportunity to move the following resolutions in order to carry out the provisions of the covenant. You will find that the first secretary-general shall be chosen by this conference, and that the first choice of the four member states who are to be added to the five great powers on the council is left to this conference.

I move, therefore, that the first secretary-general of the council shall be the Hon. Sir James Eric Hammond, and second, that until such time as the assembly shall have selected the first four members of the league to be represented on the council in accordance with article 1 of the covenant, representatives of Belgium, Brazil, Greece and Spain shall be members; and third, that the powers to be represented on the council of the league of nations are requested to name representatives who shall form a committee of nine to prepare plans for the organization of the league and for the establishment of the seat of the league and to make arrangements and to prepare the agenda for the first meeting of the assembly, this committee to report both to the council and to the assembly of the league.

ADVANCE CONTINUES AGAINST BOLSHEVIKI

Kolchak's Columns Moving in Three Columns Against Red Forces in Siberian Fight.

By The Associated Press.
FAIRBANKS, April 28.—Admiral Kolchak's troops have advanced along the southern branch of the trans-Siberian railroad in eastern European Russia to Khatanga, only 40 miles east of Salsk, according to dispatches received by the Russian government. The Russian government has taken Kolchak, the capital of Admiral Kolchak's government.

A slower advance is also being made along the northern branch of the trans-Siberian, where the anti-Bolshevik forces have taken Khatanga, east of Vorkuta. A third column is moving westward midway between these two forces and has reached Salsk on the Khatanga river. This stream is navigable and flows into the Vorkuta and with the disappearance of the ice, which is now breaking up, should afford easy transportation to Salsk, which is apparently the destination of the central column.

Prince Lvoff and other members of the Russian commission here believe that the movement westward will be rapid as spring advances and they expect that the lower Volga valley will soon be under the control of the Kolchak government. It is also hoped the Omak forces will soon capture Vorkuta, thus making it imperative that the Bolsheviki withdraw from the Archaic section of the railway running north from Vorkuta reaches the Dvina at Khatanga and would make communication easy between the allied forces in northern Russia and those of the Omak government.

Admiral Kolchak's troops in all three columns are Russians, all Czech-Slovak and allied forces having remained in Siberia. Their excellent showing has attracted much attention in peace conference circles and is assisting the movement inaugurated some time ago for the recognition of the Omak government by the entente powers and the United States.

Colonel Roosevelt said the fare had been approved by Walker D. Hines, director general of railroads.

I. W. W. Convention Postponed.

of nations, while approving the high claims of the league.

The Uruguayan delegate announced the adoption of his country to the league.

France Pushes Claim.

Leon Bourgeois of France renewed two amendments tending to give France additional security. One provided for the creation of a committee to ascertain and exchange military and naval programs information regarding armaments and war materials. The other provided for a permanent organization for the purpose of considering and providing for naval and military measures to enforce obligations arising from high contracting parties under the covenant, making it immediately operative in all cases of emergency.

M. Bourgeois argued that such security was essential to France because it extended frontiers of that country, which, as President Wilson has declared in the French senate, were the frontiers of the world's liberties.

The amendments of M. Bourgeois, representing France, were not passed. M. Clemenceau then put the question of the adoption of President Wilson's motion, which prevailed, without a formal vote.

Covenant Adopted.

The covenant was declared adopted and the session proceeded to the labor report, reading nine principles for inclusion of the treaty, which was also adopted.

After setting aside the report on war responsibilities for later consideration, the session adjourned.

George Nicol Barnes, British delegate, explained the nine points which the labor commission wished embodied in the peace treaty. Sir Robert Borden, the Canadian premier, then read the revised nine points.

The revised clauses say that the standard set by law regarding conditions of labor should have due regard for the equitable and economic treatment of the workers lawfully resident in a country and also that a 48-hour week should be aimed at. The commission had asked for this, except where climatic conditions interfered.

Sir Robert Borden said that the changes in the phraseology were the result of suggestions by different delegations and they had been accepted by all the great industrial nations.

At Clemenceau's suggestion, the revised nine points carried.

NEW ORLEANS EXTENDS WELCOME TO SOLDIERS

NEW ORLEANS, April 28.—After a New Orleans celebration, which is claimed to be unrivaled in the history of the city, the Louisiana and Mississippi contingents, which arrived here after a year's service overseas, left New Orleans tonight for Camp Shelby, Miss., where in a few days the men will be demobilized. The units, which consisted of a detachment of the 44th brigade, base hospital unit No. 24, base hospital unit No. 103, six batteries of the 11th field (Washington) artillery, and the 13th trench mortar battery, approximately 1,500 men, were given the freedom of the city, following a military procession through the principal streets and the waving of ceremonies.

STRIKING PRISONERS KILL DOGS AND CATS

SYDNEY, April 28.—The six hundred German civilians interned in a concentration camp at Holdsworth, near Sydney, recently killed all the dogs and cats in the compound in an attempt to compel the camp commandant to rescind an order temporarily stopping their supply of food and water. The Germans either ate the Australian pets or pretended to have done so. Anyway, they raised the heads of the animals on pikes. The conflict arose over the arrest and confinement of two of the Germans for attempting to escape from the compound. The others went on strike to compel the commandant to release the two men and when he cut off their food and water they killed the camp pets. Nine of the prisoners were arrested and the demonstration ended when half rations were issued.

ONLY DEMOCRACY FOR RUSSIA SAYS KOLCHAK

Will Maintain and Strengthen Its Friendly Relations With Allied Nations.

OMSK, Siberia, March 5. (By mail).—Admiral Kolchak, head of the all-Russian government, speaking recently in Ekaterinburg before a conference of members of the Omsk zemstvo and other organizations, reiterated his belief in democracy for Russia, declaring it to be "the only admissible form of future government."

Bolshevism, he said, is destroying the very foundation of authority in the country and means a desperate struggle for a long time.

At present, he pointed out, conditions sometimes force the government to employ means which do not correspond with principles of democracy, but he assured his hearers that such measures were temporary and that steps were being taken to insure universal suffrage, labor and land legislation and to develop organs of self-government.

"The government endeavors to maintain and strengthen friendly relations with the allies," said the dictator. "Russia was alarmed by the invitation to send her delegates to Prince's islands to negotiate with Bolshevism. Now this question is settled. The statement of western Europe now see the truth and blame the Bolsheviki, calling them murderers and terrorists, as did Lloyd George."

"The government is inspired with the ideal of restoring the motherland. It is not called upon to settle all fundamental questions. The Russian people are master of its fate. Released from the yoke of Bolshevism it will, through its representatives in a national assembly, express its will in regard to its form of government and its social structure. Then the present government will transfer its power to such an authorized government."

FORMER PALACE NOW CENSORSHIP OFFICE

New German Government Will Pay Strict Attention to Oversight of News.

ZURICH, March 28.—(By mail).—According to reports reaching here from Berlin, the rulers of new Germany have resolved to surpass all the efforts of their predecessors in the exercise of official influence over the press.

Immediately opposite the German foreign office stands one of the palaces of the royal house of Prussia, which of late years has been occupied by Prince Frederick Leopold, a cousin of the former emperor. This palace is to become the headquarters of the new press bureau which the government will create soon. It will be more than a mere government department, for it also will contain a club for journalists.

One part of the palatial building, a Berlin dispatch says, will be devoted to the office of officials whose work will be that of inspiring the press, and the remainder will be transformed into luxurious club-rooms.

There will be a library, writing-rooms, reading-rooms, smoking-rooms, billiard-rooms, a restaurant, an American bar, lounge-rooms and a gymnasium, with a telegraph office conveniently attached.

Every conceivable device, it is stated, will be employed to capture and retain the sympathies of newspaper men.

How to Judge a Woman By Her Hair

There is real common sense in just noticing whether the hair is well kept to judge of a woman's neatness or good taste. If you are one of the few who try to make the most of your hair, remember that it is not advisable to wash the hair with any cleanser made for all purposes. But always use some good shampoo. You can enjoy the very best by getting some canthors from your druggist, dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to the hair instead of just the top of the head. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely dissipated. Your hair will be so fluffy, soft, it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth—Adv.
